MAHONING COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Mahoning County Teachers' Institute is in session in Canfield, having opened Monday. The teachers of the county have been greatly interested and very enthusiastic from the very beginning of the program. Prof. J. F. Guy, director of Research and Measurements in Pittsburgh public schools, opened the week's work with a very pointed lecture, "The Making of Jim."

The idea he brought to the teachers was, the teacher must understand and love his pupils or he had better leave them. He has since been presenting very striking facts on tests and measurements made in Pittsburgh public schools and other cities, how these tests were tabulated, and how these facts and tests could be used to good advantage by any and all teachers of the county.

Dr. Reuben Post Halleck, department of English, Louisville, Ky., gave a lecture, "What a Child Can Understand." He presented similar facts to show how teachers can make written English work function with the children. Prof. Halleck speaks in simple English and the beginning teacher can grasp his ideas, and we are assured his efforts for the week will be a great success for advancement of the schools. Prof. Halleck says the average teacher of high school lands only 10 per cent of what he teaches the first time the subject matter is presented. Teachers teach in abstract terms, instead of concrete, therefore, his efforts do not function in the child's mind. His slogan since this introduction speech has been, "Be Concrete in Presentation of All Subject Matter." His talks on English have been to the point. He discussed oral English work and presented many striking facts to show that the teachers can find things that need their attention.

C. E. Oliver, one of the State Inspectors, was here and presented the state program and requested that the teachers of Mahoning county help raise the standard of the state educationally from twelfth place to first if possible.

Supt. Jerome Hull presented some shop work, explaining the work in preparation for the county fair next week. The following of county help raise the standard of the state educationally from twelfth place to first if possible.

Of the 200 teachers in the county, it is a pleasure to note that 170 are attending the institute.

THE DEAN FAMILY REUNION.

The 18th reunion of the Dean family was held Aug. 25 at the home of Fred C. Dean, the old Orman Dean farm at Lordstown, O. The day was all that could be desired and 62, including three guests, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Folsom, and Miss Ora Stewart, enjoyed the cordial hospitality of their host and hostess. After a bountiful dinner was served the business meeting was called by the vice president, Fred Dean, reports of the secretary and treasurer read, and notices of the marriages, births and deaths given.

Marriages—Julia, Helen Austin, daughter of Harmon Austin, Jr., married June 12 to Edward Crosby Lipman at Los Angeles, Cal. Births—Edward Niel Bird, Nov. 17, 1919; a son to Milo Dean Dec. 1919; Phil Henry Weimor, Dec. 28, 1919; Noble Robert Campbell, Mar. 30, 1920; Elvira Callaway, June 13, 1920; Gordon Frederick Lentz, June 15, 1920; Doris Elizabeth May, June 17, 1920; Twin son to Ernest Burner, July 5, 1920.

In the race for the silver spoon the latter claims the victory. Mrs. Pendleton, wife of Arthur Sackett, son of Oliver P. Sackett, Florence Linn, daughter of Milo Dean, Prof. Bailey Sutton Dean, son of Orasmus Dean, Miss Lottie Sackett, daughter of Myron Sackett, twin son of Ernest Burner.

In the election of officers our vice president and secretary resigning, Austin Dean of Warren was elected president and Mrs. Nellie Dean Allen of Cleveland secretary-treasurer. Our new secretary was authorized to order more of the Dean histories. A cordial invitation was extended by Will Dean to hold our next reunion at his home in Burton, O., the time to be decided by the acting president. Special tribute was paid to the memory of our beloved president, Prof. Dean, and Miss Lottie Sackett. Mrs. Pendleton, in a very timely way spoke of Mr. Sackett's life as she had personally known it. It was a beautiful tribute from one under whose special care our more than friend had been for many years. It was especially fitting as it was known of her worth in the home, church and community better than Mrs. Pendleton. Mr. Folsom spoke feelingly of her influence over his life as a Sunday school pupil and friend. Mrs. Nellie Dean gave a most excellent review of the life and character of Prof. Dean. Her talk brought the tears to many eyes as she dwelt upon his influence in the various activities in which he was engaged.

Prof. Pendleton, in whose home Prof. Dean had been a frequent guest, spoke of the cheer which he always brought with his visits, even if they were no longer than to lend a word of greeting. Mrs. Allie Dean Waldo, in a very fitting way spoke of the lives that have gone from us and wondered if the younger generation were living up to the high standards set them and thought they could spare their virtues. The presence of the devoted wife and daughter of Prof. Dean did much to dispel the sadness which was anticipated and their heroism in this trying time showed the value of a christian life.

Surely the predominant characteristic of these, our beloved friends, was love. Their love of their own was always sweet and tender, but not for them alone. Whenever their lives touched other lives, perhaps by some act of self-denial, some kindly word, a lasting friendship was formed which will go on as a testimonial to their worth.

"Each moment's task and duty done As ceaseless day to each succeeds; 'Tis thus goes down life's setting sun, Serene and bright with worthy deeds."

A Grateful Letter.

It is in trying conditions like that related below by Mrs. Geo. L. North, of Naples, N. Y., that proves the worth of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. "Two years ago last summer," she says, "our little boy had dysentery. At that time we were living in the country eight miles from a doctor. Our son was taken ill suddenly and was about the sickest child I ever saw. He was in terrible pain all the time and passed from one convulsion into another. I sent my husband for the doctor and after he had gone thought of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the cupboard. I gave him some of it and he began to improve at once. By the time the doctor arrived he was out of danger."—Adv.

SMALL STREAMS FURNISH POWER

Electricity Can Be Generated for Farm and Home Use at Very Little Expense.

CHEAP SUPPLY OF CURRENT

Great Shortage of Labor Makes It Desirable for Farmer to Take Advantage of Every Opportunity to Cut Expenses.

Many farmers unknowingly have on their farms a source of power that could be put to work at very little expense and could be made to fill many farm and domestic needs. This is the stream, large or small, that now runs away in wasted energy. Particularly at this time, when there is a great shortage of labor on the farms, it is desirable that the farmers take advantage of every possible means of utilizing power. Electricity, too, for farm and domestic uses benefits the farmer's wife as much as it does the farmer himself, for it relieves her of much of the drudgery of housework and adds greatly to the comfort of farm life.

The farmer's needs go hand in hand with those of the wife, so, in considering the size of the power plant to be installed, he should include her requirements as well as his own. The desirability of a dependable, convenient and cheap supply of electric current for use for light and power purposes on country places is so manifest that one is justified usually in going to some lengths to secure it. It is advisable to put in a plant somewhat larger than the needs of the moment require. An additional horsepower or two will not greatly change the first cost, while use will always be found for any original excess.

Supplies Over Ten Horsepower.

A stream 10 feet wide with an average depth of 2 feet and flowing at the rate of 2 feet a second under a head of 5 feet is capable of supplying over 10 horsepower, according to estimates made by engineers of the division of rural engineering, bureau of public roads, of the United States department of agriculture, that have been investigating the utilization of farm streams as sources of energy for generating electricity. Ten horsepower is equivalent to about 7½ kilowatts, which is sufficient electricity for all lighting on the average farmstead and for operating motors for many of the usual needs for power, such as the washing machine, milking machine, separator, churn, feed grinder, fan, mill, etc. If the head could be made 10 feet instead of 5, the horsepower could be doubled. Or if the stream were twice as wide or twice as deep with but a 5-foot head the result would be the same.

The minimum conditions under which an installation should be considered are, roughly, a flow of 100 gallons per minute and a head of 10 feet, or the equivalent. Under these conditions the amount of electricity generated continuously is small, but by permitting the plant to run continuously and storing the current generated in storage batteries, a supply may be always at hand for the lighting and small power requirements of the farm.

Small and Large Plants.

A plant capable of furnishing current for as many as 50 to 100 lights, for the house, barn, outbuildings, yard and drives; providing ample current for washing, ironing, vacuum cleaning, electric fans, toasters, percolators, hot plates, sewing machine, etc., for all cooking, heating of water and the house in the coldest weather, as well as for operating motors for all the various farming operations even during the winter time, necessarily must be considered the exception. On the other hand, the smallest plant which is worthy of consideration is one having a capacity of but eight to ten lights.

Between these two extremes, there exist today on our farms the means of developing thousands of plants large enough to supply between five and ten horsepower during all seasons of the year. It will be found that these plants will fill the needs of the average farm and provide an excess for emergencies. The cost may be considered well within the reach of thousands of owners today.

WHEN LAWS WERE CRUEL

Barbarous Death or Life Imprisonment the Portion of Thinkers in the Sixteenth Century.

They had a rough and ready way of dealing with spiritualists in the sixteenth century. An act was passed on the statute book in the reign of Queen Mary which made it a capital offense for many persons "to propose to hold communications with the dead," and later the penalty for such an offense was made burning at the stake.

In 1520 a man named Edward Barber, who lived at Ungar in Essex, was ordered by a local magistrate to be put in the stocks for three days, and subsequently to stand for trial for pretending that he had received messages from a dead person, and "for telling divers persons that he had done so."

This luckless spiritualist, however, was never sent for trial, as on the last night of his confinement in the stocks he was burned to death by some of the villagers.

In the reign of Queen Anne a man named Prothero was sentenced to imprisonment for life for writing a pamphlet proving that communication with the dead was possible; and even so late as the reign of George I there are records of severe punishments being inflicted on people who professed that they had received messages from the dead.

In the reign of James I a Dutch merchant named Koley, living in London, was sent to the Tower for alleging that during a bad illness he had actually died and that his soul had passed for two hours in the body beyond, when it returned to his body.

Koley was deprived of his property and was sentenced to imprisonment for life. He escaped from prison, however, and managed to make his way back to his native country, where he afterwards published a book giving the experiences of his visit to the world beyond the grave.—Stray Stories.

RULED BY TREATY POWERS

Shanghai Only Great City in the World That is Under That Form of Control.

Shanghai is an international city—the only international city in the world. It is controlled and governed by the treaty powers, which include all the principal powers that have established treaty relations with China, except France, which has its own territory or concession adjoining the international settlement. In such a community unique solutions have to be found for unique problems, and no problem has been more difficult than that of the administration of justice.

For the foreign resident it is a simple matter, writes Nathaniel Peffer in Asia magazine. He is subject only to the laws of his own country, because of the privilege of extra-territoriality which China conceded to foreign powers some 70 years ago, when she was forced to concede so much else, including parts of her territory. Thus, for the American, there is an American district attorney to administer American law, just as in New York, Chicago, San Francisco or Japan. As for the British, Russian, Japanese or Italian, even if no special court has been established for him, there is at least a consular court. The result is of course, that your neighbor can do things with impunity that would net you $25 and costs, or vice versa.

BUY IN CANFIELD

You Will Save Good Money

Of late there has been a great deal of talk about the reduction of prices, and some large stores in the larger cities have been selling goods at so-called greatly reduced prices. As an intelligent observer and reader you understand that these reductions have been made in most cases where the margin of profit has been too large in the first place.

We have been marking our goods very closely right along, and, therefore, could not make similar reductions.

However, we assure you that the close prices we are now quoting are far below some of these so-called reduced prices, and you save money in buying here.

We still have a few good Business Suits at $18, $20, $25 to $28. Fine Dress Suits in plain or mixed at $28, $30, $35 to $42.

We offer the best, made by the Clothcraft House, at from $42 to $48. These suits compare well with the so-called $65 to $75 suits advertised by some stores—even at their reduced prices you still save a good sum by buying here. And so with other lines—Shirts, Ties, Underwear, Collars, etc. Linen Collars have been advertised by some at reduced prices from 30c to 25c when our price for exactly the same collar has never been over 25c. They sold them too high or their reduction was of the so-called kind. The result was visible in Canfield. Why, we sold more than twice the number of collars, shirts, ties and more clothing than any other year. And if you have not found this out yet, come in and you'll soon be convinced that we have the goods and the low prices.

A delayed shipment of Ladies' Silk Hosiery, which we bought last summer, has just arrived and you can buy these at last summer's prices—$1.50, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50 up to $3.50; in white, black, grey, and brown; are worth today one-half more.

Other lines in Cotton and Silk Lisle at 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c and 75c.
